Greetings Raven Home School Families,

We hope you and your families are staying healthy and safe, especially through these unprecedented times. Your family is our top priority.

Raven has been working hard behind the scenes to ensure that we continue to meet your homeschooling needs. Even with the offices continuing to be closed, you can expect the same high-quality services you are accustomed to. You should be receiving consistent support from your local teachers and administrative assistants while they are working from home. Our business office is still processing reimbursements and orders to ensure there are no delays for your supplies or reimbursement checks.

With everything going on around us, we need the stability of a quality educational program. To ensure a smooth transition completing this year and moving on to the next, we are making re-enrollment even easier for you. You can expect a call from your advisory teacher asking if you would like them to simply re-enroll you for next school year. We are hoping to have all families reenrolled earlier this year so we can determine our staffing and program supports.

In addition, we believe staying with a routine is helpful during these times; however, we will be looking at how we can extend our deadlines to better meet the needs of our families.

We appreciate you supporting the safety of our employees, our Raven families and our fellow Alaskans. Raven staff members are available by phone and email during business hours to support all of your homeschool needs.

Thank you all for your continued support,

Kerry Boyd
